> UNITED STATES CIRCUIT COURT. Important to Builders.

Before Judge Blatchford. Pelham vs. Brown and Dart .- This was a suit in stituted by Thomas M. Pelham, of the city of New using, or seiling an "improved had elevator" which said Pelham invented, and for which letters patent were issued to him on the 28th September, 1860. The proofs in the case showed that prior to Pelnam's invention two modes were known for elevating bricks and mortar to be used in the construction of buildings. One was to carry the same in tubs by means of crabs to which the tubs were attached, and after they were elevated to the desired point the contents of the tubs were discharged. The effect of this discharge was to shake and seriously injure the wails. The other mode was to carry up the hods by means of elevators, the bowls of the hods being suspended above the platform, so that the shanks or handles would be in an upright position, the ends not touching the platform of the clevator. This made it necessary for the workmen who had to remove the hods to step upon the platform of the elevator and thereby endanger their lives. Before Pelham's invention many accidents happened and many lives were lost by men stepping on the platform of the elevator. To remedy this evil the complainant invented an improvement in said hod elevator, which consisted in this; that when the hod was being placed on the elevator the shank rested in a notch on the edge of the elevator and the bowl of the hod left to rest on the transverse beam, so that when they were being taken of the elevator it was only successary for the men to catch hold of the handle

These frauds are being rigorously prosecuted. A most complete system of fraudulent registering, running back through the past six years, has been detected, and the amount of fraud during that time is almost unlimited. Proceedings against several vessels have been instituted, and the schooner Porto Plata will be sold by Marshai Harlow, at Roberts' stores, Brooklyn, on Monday, having been condemned and forfeited to the government for sailing with a fraudulent register.

The Belgian Murder. Before Judge Curtis.

The hearing of the argument in the case of Carl Voght, charged with the murder of the Belgian obleman, Chevaller de Bianco, and theft of bonds and securities, the property of the murdered man, was to have been heard yesterday in this Court. The history of the case has already been fully published and it is unnecessary to recapitulate the facts. The main question involved is the right of Governor Hoffman to order the surrender of the prisoner to the Belgian government, there being no extradition treaty between Belgium and the United States. Additional interest is given to the question from the fact of Juage Blatchford, of the United States. Additional interest is given to the adverse to the position taken by Governor Hoffman. Abundant counsel were on hand, Messrs. John H. Sutton, Jacob A. Gross and F. Kintzing representing the prisoner, District Attorney Garvin the people and the Messrs. Conder the Belgian government. Owing to the engagement of Juage Curits in General Term the case was postponed till next Friday. and securities, the property of the murdered man, is a Married Woman Responsible for Her Blank Endorsement Upon a Promissory Note-Important Decision. Before Judge Joachimsen.

William E. Treadwell vs. Lindley M. Hoffman and Mary L. Hoffman.—This action was brought upon a promissory note made by L. M. Hoffman to the his wife, Mary L. Hoffman, for $500, value received, which note was endorsed by her in blank to the plaintiff. It was admitted that at the time of the transfer of the note Mrs. Hofman was the wife of the maker,

The decision in this case does not depend upon the question whether or not the defendant, Mrs. Hoffman, is to charred in equity with the amount of the note in suit, a lien or charge upon her separate estate. This court hnot the jurisdiction to entertain an action cognizable on in a court of equity. The office of a suit in equity charge the separate estate of a married woman upon he contract is to decree that by force of the contract, proprigories, a lien or charge was created upon the equitable state, and which the decree of the Court would enfore and intervening equities, if any, adjusted. Such an a change Bank vs. Babcock, 42 N. Y. Reps., p. 644. It mose a restricted endorsement "without recourse," or may be a general endorsement. The law did not confid the Holman to either mode of endorsement. It woo be vain to say that she has a general power of a dispos of her property without at the same time granting to he usual and ordinary means of exercising the pow iver what is conceded to be her properfile general endorsement, if filled in, as the plai iff had a right to fill it in, would have reast follows:—"Pay to the order of W. A. Treadwell, i raine received." On that written contract, you wou tave it, in the case of the non-payment of the note by the aker, and upon due notice to the endorser, the endorsewould be held liable to respond for the amount of men expresented by the note, and which, upon the disposit the note, by the import of the endorsement, he had in vs. Dillaye, 37 New 1707 Reps., p. 30). I cannot agree to the law supposed to be laid down in Smith vs. Coster, which permits a married woman to purchase property but excuses her from paying for it. The law on the subject of husband and wife, by the acts of 1830 and 1832, it has State, is changed. There is no escape from the reasoning in Babcock vs. The Corn Exchange Bank that when a married woman assumes to act in reference to her separate property the question is no whether the action is for her own benefit. The right to act and to bind her property carries with the right to act unwisely and to her own injury, if she so wills. The fact that her action is for the benefit of her property is, no doubt, one ground, but it is not the only ground. In the cases clied from 4 Lansing's Report the Courts insist that there shall be a lair and full construction of married women acts, giving her the benefit and, of course, subjecting her to the liabilities of a person sof juris. Whether as a matter of fact or of law, I hole that the endorsement and delivery to an endorse by a married woman of a promisory note for value receives is naturally an act upon the credit of and "for the benefit of her separate estate." In Ballia and Dillage a married woman entered lists a covenant securing a mortgage assigned by her. There was a deficiency, and for that dedictionly judgment scalins her personally, refused by the lower Courts, was ordered when property of the married women's act it is now lead for the benefit of the separate property are chedit of the horizont of the Married Women's act it is now leading the form of the benefit of the separate property are chedit of the separate property in the court of the horizont of the married women's act it is now leading the contract is one of transfer and indemnity in regard to the property specifically dealt with, but while the contract is one of transfer and indemnity in regard to the property specifically dealt with, but while the court of the second of the married women's act it is n
